Ice-cream at the beach

Yesterday, it was sunny and hot. It was a beautiful day. We were on our summer vacation and my mum had taken us to the beach.

> What was the weather like?
> What were the people doing?
> Where were they?

I was at the beach with my family. We were swimming in the water and playing in the sand. We were happy and we were having a great time.

> What were they doing?
> Were they happy or sad?
> Were they having a good time or a bad time?

However, in the afternoon my mum was cross because my brother Pablo was being naughty. He was throwing sand at our dog, but It was going all over our picnic lunch. In the end, we had no lunch so we were all hungry.

> Why was her mum cross?
> What was Pablo doing?
> Where was the sand?
> Were they hungry?

We were so hungry so we went back to the car. My mum was still angry with Pablo so wouldn't buy him an ice-cream. As I was a good girl I had an ice-cream. It was chocolate and mint flavour.

> Why did they go back to the car?
> Was the mother still angry with her son?
> What type of ice cream was the girl eating?

In the end, my brother made a joke and my mom was laughing. She forgot that she was angry! In the end, everyone was happy, especially Pablo as my mum bought him an ice-cream too. It was a fun day at the beach.

> How did Pablo make his mum stop being angry?
> Did she buy Pablo an ice cream too?
